“ To my God Mother, I've been speechless since I've learned of your passing. My mind troubled me wishing I could turn back the clock and be more present in your life. Some of my fondest memories involve you. And if I could paint a picture to reflect how much I really loved you I would need all of the colors in the world and every canvas available. You were a God send to me. I always felt like a better version of me when I was in your presence. You gave off a sense of peace that resonated to me and you were always so encouraging. I remember coming up as a young girl to spend a few days with you, I wanted to impress you that I knew how to crack eggs while making breakfast together. Even when I kept getting shells in the bowl you were kind and patient. Giving me tips to perfect my craft. Something so small impacted me in a large way. During that same visit I learned that you owned your very own business. I had never been more proud of a person. You took me to your office and all I could say to myself, while eating several pieces of candy you so graciously provided me with(lol), I wanted to be just like you. Who you were effortlessly touched the lives of many, I am grateful that I am one of those lives. I love you Mother Newing.

“ She cared for me, during my darkest hour--quietly, patiently and willingly. She championed me, when I thought no one even saw me. Caring for others was her gift to the world. Her insight to your pain was bewildering, and her ministering always timely. Her soft gentle voice, was resounding and undeniable--almost poetic. There are many others who can echo these words. We will forever and always feel grateful! Rest in Peace and Love, Aunt Ann...

“ On January 8, 2019, America, my cousin, sent me a letter. The cardstock is beautiful and I have always kept it on my bedroom mirror as a remembrance of her kindness towards me. American sent me a picture of my mom when she was a teenager - Carlene Johnson who is deceased. When we talked, we often talked about owning our own business and how our family has always been business owners. She was such an encouraging force, always making sure I kept moving forward, no matter how slow it was going. America's encouragement will always be a lasting impression on me. I will miss her encouraging and inspiring words. She will be missed dearly.
