“ Nine years ago today I whispered in your ear while you were laying in the hospital bed "Its ok, baby..... you can go. and you took your last breath.

A teardrop fell from your left eye after you went to sleep for the last time , holding my hand.

I thank God for letting me be there to watch you come into this world and for letting me be there when you left

I miss you baby. Not a day goes by that I don't think about you....Rest well

“ I met you many years ago - at United Christian Church - and remember you singing in the teen choir at the time and though you weren't there long you definitely made an impact. When I heard of your passing I was sad that you were gone but happy that you're no longer in pain. Heaven has gained a new angel... you fought the good fight and now take your rest.

2 Corinthians 5:1 - For we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, an eternal house in heaven, not built by human hands.

“ It seems so crazy knowing you've passed I haven't talk to you in only God knows how long I can remember running into you one time since we graduated middle school. Never would I have thought that the next I would be seeing you would be at the end of ur long Journey. I remember us playing basketball together I remember ur big smile. I'm selfish because I know you were in pain but I'm still wishing u were here just one more day so I could have a chance to reconnect with a old friend with a good friend. “ My dear Aunt Linda, your time to mourn will be followed by chances to dance. I pray Clarissa presence will always be known in our lives. May you never allow sadness to breed doubt when it is meant to breed hope for tomorrow.
