“ Happy Father's Day to the man who helped me get onto this Earth. I know mom had surgery not to have any children but I'm so amazing that I came anyway. I know you weren't there for us the way you wanted to be but I know that you love us. I would always love to come over to see Max and Roscoe and to help you cook breakfast even though mom didn't like the area you lived in we would always convince her to let me stay over. You were only alive to watch me reach 7 years old but I know your looking down on me and smiling to see me become a young woman. I will always carry you through my heart throughout everything I do. ~Love, Destiny

“ I can't talk or think about you without wanting to cry! We will be deeply saddened forever because of the loss of you. You were one of the few strong male figures in my life. When you came around I know two things, that you had something crazy/funny to say or some project to work on. I wish you wasn't taken from us like that.... But I know your resting peacefully & I can find peace in that.

“ On May 13th me and baby girl visited the cemetery. We both were very pleased to see your headstone was finished. It was exactly as I wanted. I didn't tell baby girl where we were going. The moment we stopped at the florist for your flowers she says with her eyes lit up. Are we going to see daddy. Then I asked for a cone for flowers. Ciara says proudly I know we're goin to see daddy. When it was time baby girl didn't want to leave she ask me to talk to you some more. That brought her much comfort as for me too. Tears of happiness for the past, present and future.

“ What can I say about my father? Even doe at time we wouldn't see eye to eye, he was still there for me. He was a big sports fan. No matter how mad we could be at each other let a game come on and we was the best of friends. He would call me after every game LeBron had and say, " boooyyyyy did you see that dunk he did." That's the one thing we had was are sports and its going to be hard watching them without you. Love you

Thank you Sherry, but I took care of your brother my husband because the bible says to death do us apart and for our children. There was no greater love or loss that I feel than when I lost Clinton Sr.
