“ As I came to say goodbye...the amount of people that were there, shows evidence that you were loved. May you rest well in the loving arms of God. You will be missed. Prayers to the entire family. I am still in disbelief.

Always,
BB

“ Darius,

Bruh... I can barely put this into words. You are truly one of those people whose absence leaves a real mark—not just in the room, but in the soul. I'm going to miss you something serious. Your love for God? It wasn't just inspiring—it was contagious. You carried Him with you in how you spoke, how you moved, how you loved your family, and even in the way you cracked a joke that somehow still led to a word from the Lord. 😂

Those conversations we had about scripture—those were sacred. Not just two men talking, but two brothers sharpening iron. When you came to me with questions about the Word, I wasn't just proud—I was honored. Because I knew you weren't just seeking answers... you were seeking truth. And I watched that truth lead you in how you made decisions, how you led your family, and how you lived with boldness and integrity.

And now, while you're stepping into another season, just know this—we got your family. We're standing in the gap, lifting them up in prayer, loving on them, and holding them the way I know you would for any of us.

This ain't goodbye, bro. It's just a “see you later.” I love you more than words can hold, and I thank God for every moment, every laugh, every lesson, and every prayer we shared.

*With all my heart,
Antonn Lewis*
