

Mr. Darnell Quenton Burden

September 9, 1984 - December 7, 2024

In Loving Memory Of

Darnell Quenton Burden (Onion) was born on September 9, 1984 in Detroit, Michigan to mother Cassandra Burden and Anthony Pugh (dad) and Randy Gill (father).

Darnell attended Detroit Public Schools. He then went on to Job Corp. where he received his GED in 2006 and received certification in carpentry. He was the second oldest out of three children. He had one brother Antonio Burden and one sister Iesha Lewis.

Growing up, Darnell always wanted to be around his family. His mother only had three children but his cousins were like his brothers and sisters too. They all grew up together. Even though he may have gotten on all our nerves, he didn't care. He was still going to be right there regardless of if he agreed with you or not. He was going to tell you about yourself but still have your back.

After he graduated, he worked as a security guard and he also did home improvement jobs which he was good at. While he was in job corp., he found out he was a diabetic. Unfortunately, his health went for a turn last year in 2023 where both his kidney and heart started to decline and that's when he started dialysis. Since then, he had been trying to get on the kidney transplant list.

Darnell loved watching sports but his favorite was football and his favorite team was the LIONS. He had a great sense of humor. Darnell loved his family and made sure he called just to say "I love you." Darnell didn't have any children of his own so he treated his nieces, nephews, and cousins like his own. He leaves to forever cherish his memories with family and friends.
