“ To the Maxwell and Austin Family,

My heart, sympathy, and condolences goes out to you. I cannot not phathom that I am writing this message. However, I want you all to know this to be true, God is always with you and he will never leave you. He is the ultimate Healer of hurting hearts. Believe and trust in him, and he will do just that. This is a difficult time; just hold on tight to Jesus while Debbie is spending time with him, enjoying his Glory. LaKeisha and your sisters, Greg, and Alex, I send my love. May God bless you all and he will keep you.

Your Robson sister,

“ To the Maxwell-Austin Family,

Your mom was such a fun, friendly and loving person. Friends since childhood, (Deb met no strangers). I think about the times we spent together, bike riding, shopping and welcoming our newborn(s) home, etc.! How not long ago she encouraged me during a difficulty time. I could always count of her to have extra tissues to share. A true friend always! I loved your mom and am truly sorry for your loss. I will miss my friend Deb, dearly. Tissues on me...this time.

Matthew 5:4 (Look for it, expect it!)

“ To my cousins back home.....There really are no words that can take away your sorrow. But what's keeping me going is our last conversation and how much we laughed and caught up with life. She said, "love you cousin, and I said, "Love ya right back Brown!" My face was locked on permanent smile for the next few hours as I anticipated our visit 4 days later. She lives in my heart and permanently locked in my memories. I love you all and continue to pray for strength and comfort now and the days ahead.
