Frankolene Rozier, fondly known as “Fran” or “Frankie” to family and close friends, was born to Frank and Jessie Hones on January 25, 1928; the third of four daughters, in Detroit, Michigan.

Fran was an excellent student and graduated from Lincoln High School in Ferndale on her 16th birthday. Upon graduation, she worked as a messenger where she was chauffeured to various places to deliver messages. She later attended Harper Hospital School of Nursing to obtain her degree to become a Licensed Practical Nurse. For over 40 years, she worked at various hospitals, including Ford Hospital, Zeiger Hospital and Osteopathic Hospital of Detroit. She spent many of those early years assisting obstetricians delivering babies and later, worked as a pediatric nurse. She was passionate about caring for others, especially infants and children. She found it rewarding because she was able to make a difference in people’s lives.

In 1960, Fran married her husband, Henry Rozier and together they raised five children. When they weren’t busy working, they had the opportunity to travel to several different destinations, including a cruise to the Bahamas. She was an avid reader. She loved reading from her big collection of romance novels and the daily newspaper. She was a fan of music and every once in awhile, you could catch her dancing to her favorite tunes. When she watched television, she would always keep up with her favorite soap operas, mystery and crime shows. She also loved dogs. She had a pet continuously since the early 1960s. She leaves behind her beloved pet, Freckles. After retiring at age 62, she spent time caring for her grandchildren. She formed a special bond with them. She loved cooking for them and sharing her childhood stories and life lessons. She always had your best interest at heart and will be deeply missed by those who she shared her heart with.
