“ Today, you were on my mind heavily. Whenever it snows at night, I always think of you. Whenever the day is so beautiful, it makes me want to go back in time and come over and watch you play video games and lie across your lap and laugh about the cats having more kittens under your porch. I'm sure I will find myself here again, but for now, I miss you, and I am happy that I had a chance to be with you, know you, and love you.

“ Greg, I've been wanting to write this for so long. It breaks my heart that you had to leave us so soon, even though you are the lucky one who gets to be in Heaven and experience everlasting life. I had a dream about you; you did not say anything, but you were there. I will never forget our first date and how badly it snowed that day. I will never forget the summer and how I would come over, and we would play video games and relax in the basement in your room. You will always be special to me.
