“ Mother my Heart is Broken in So Many Pieces and I can't seem to stop Crying , but because one of your last words to me while holding my hand and looking me in my eyes You said , Paula don't Cry I'm ok , I will try not to cry much and accept that you were tired and wanted to go home , you told me that but Mother it didn't register to me which home you we're talking about, but now I'm beginning to see what you were telling me Mother , I can't lie to you and say I'm not acting selfish right about now in wishing I could keep you with me , but I no Jesus wanted another one of his Angels Home and you were ready to go .

So Mom I will tell you I promise I will continue to walk in the shoes and talk in the talk that you have taught me to , Because of the Strong Loving Crismatic Woman You Were Makes me the Woman I am today , Job well done Mother now rest until I see you again , then we will continue to talk daily.

I Love You Mom your 1st Born Daughter Paula see you later.

“ When I think of Gwen - I remember a passage of time from my beginning .. to our now... her now that she has joined the others in another place - rejoicing in their reunion. But for me now - memories of serious meals and oh my God.. those cakes...fast forward to "Nita go get me a Chicken Shack meal, to wandering through the casinos, to settling in to life at the house. I celebrate the fullness of her life and will remember her joy in 'all' of us! God Bless you and Keep you family...

I Love you all,

“ We are all precious in God's eyes. Not one little bird can fall to the earth without our Heavenly Father knowing. HE knows the pain of the Garland family. Take comfort is HIS plea: "I am your God", "grasping your right hand". . . "Do not be afraid. I myself will help you". Let HIM comfort you. He will give you, "the power beyond what is normal", and get you up, when you feel you can't. 2 Corinthians 4:7.
