“ This wall says "Share a Memory" but I have so many. The birth of our two children, our first family vacation, the countless BBQ's, water park vacations, Frankenmuth, museums, countless holidays with our babies, going to the cottage, and even as simple as watching Power. This is the hardest thing I have ever been through in my life, not just for myself but the pain I'm enduring for our children. It's been a week, a long long week. I know you are at peace, not in pain, and happy where you are but I just cannot accept this yet. I can't accept that our two girls (and your two beautiful oldest girls) will no longer have daddy there when they open Christmas presents, to go to daddy daughter dances, or even just to call when they miss you. I am thankful that no matter what we were going through we built awesome memories with our children that they will forever cherish. I will miss you Jason, very much, and I promise your girls will be well taken care of. You're not just our girls daddy anymore, you're their guardian angel. <3
