“ Brother K, it's almost 12 months since since you suddenly left me and the rest of your loved ones, not a single day passes without me talking to you only to remember that you're gone forever. Alo has since happened but we carry on trying my best. Your son Kameron Kagyenzi has grown, he is now 12 years, tall and handsome. We see him and we celebrated his birthday together as his dad's family, God is in control, where fail forgive us but we will always be the for your son. Rest well my beloved brother, I miss you so much and thank you for your love ❤️

“ "KK" and I met as college students in Ohio. We had a friend in common. A friend of KK's was a sweet heart of mine. I knew KK to be a kind, witty, intelligent, stand up guy with good intentions for those around him--a real Gentleman. We had many "philosophical" conversations about our beliefs of the world in the way we understood it. I probably saw KK no more than 3 or 4 times since we were kids at Central State, but he left a strong impression on my mind and my heart. Rest well KK. While you are no longer in our physical presence, your spirit remains and for that, we are thankful.

“ KK you were a strong pillar to my family ever since we arrived in the United States. Thank you for being a mentor to my boys. And our daughter Rita in heaven welcoming you home with Jesus. You completed your journey well with bravery and giving back to mankind. Thank you for a job well done. May your sweet soul rest in the arms of Jesus. You will be missed.

“ To you Papa K, You will always be that cool uncle, the one that called in the morning, in the afternoon and in the evening. The cool one that knew almost everything about everything and was not shy to share your knowledge. For you shared with us your goodness we can only share it forward. I will always hold you in high regard and always think about you. Sleep with the angels Papa K

KK found out I was friends with his nephews and he loved me right away . He would call me just to find out how I am doing . He really made me laugh. I am saddened that I didn't get to meet him physically after all these years but I knew him like I had known him forever. He was a lovely person . May you Rest In Peace my friend.
