AN

“ Lando,

My Brother, I've never been one to say I Love You in Words. I hope you have felt I loved you Indeed. Because, Indeed, I did love you. I hope you felt whenever you called me, I was there for you or I was made aware that you needed my help. I never passed judgment, but was there for support and help. Although, we all must make this journey. Sure as you live, you must die. Knowing this fact does not make the grief any less.

Now, I know you're at peace with the Lord.

Anthony.

“ It was October 24, 2010 when you first told me "I love you ". We had a loving relationship, and a wonderful life together. It was me & you: soul mates. We shared an intimate life together. We had our share of ups & downs, but at the end of the day; we still loved each other. I loved our life together: weekend trips, quiet holidays, frying chicken contest, family feud, Wii basketball, and so many other family moments. Lando, you were all I ever wanted. I loved you since our Tappan days, differently, but love just the same. You did surprise me by getting down on one knee January 02, 2015 to propose marriage. You knew that I loved you, and I knew that you loved me. We have endured so much during our brief time together. No one but our Heavenly Father can love me like you. I'm so grateful to God for allowing us to share our lives and love with each other. You are my honey: very loving, caring, and supportive. Lan, you were an exceptional man, and a loving father. I told you many times how much I respected you for that. I don't know what I'm going to do with our twin outfits, or how to do without you. One thing for sure, I'm glad you're suffering anymore: it was heartbreaking. Now it's time for you to get your reward: walking around Heaven . Say hello to my Mom. I LOVE YOU❤️💕💕.
