Celebrating The Life Of Margaret Marie Patterson-Pride:

Margaret Marie Pride was born on August 30, 1929, in Godfrey/Eatonton, Georgia to Willie Bell and Robert Patterson. She graduated from Miller High School in Detroit, Michigan and went on to marry Alvin Pride and have five children.

Margaret was a hard working woman, who managed to raise her children and maintain a home while also pursuing her career. She was employed with the Board of Education Broadcasting in the printing department. She also worked for the Parks and Recreation lunch program and finally at Wayne State University (Project 350) as a community liaison where she bridged the gap between the home and University. She advocated for the parents and students and developed the Parent Social Hour. She had Ester Gordy, Carl Owens; some of Detroit's finest, to speak to students and parents and made it fun, interesting and festive. In other words a touch of class. She believed in community involvement and was a den mother with the boy scouts. She also attended Marygrove College for Child Care Development.

Margaret was a woman of faith and a living example of compassion. She always fed the hungry, gave where needed and loved beauty. Beautification is the one thing she always implemented be it work, community and home. "Look good, smell good, feel good" was one of her favorite mantras.

In addition to supporting community she found solace at the church The Home of Love and had all her grandchildren baptized by Martha Jean the Queen. We are all blessed to have learned many valuable lessons from her; caring for others, treasuring the beauty in everyone and everything and to celebrate life while you are living.

Margaret departed this life on February 13, 2018.
