“ I read about your son in the Southfield paper, and my heart was soooo broken. This is a very sad tragedy and nothing less than that. Xavier seemed to be an awesome young man... someone to be very proud of (and I know all of you were proud of him). I was a substitute teacher at Pepper around Sept. 14...and it was for a 5th grade class (a male teacher whose classroom was near an exit door)... and it seems that I met this vibrant young man. I keep thinking that I've met him... and he was sweet and well behaved.

My son is 9 1/2 and he is just so wonderful and I love him so much each and every day. When I read about Xavier, I thought about the deep love I have for my own son and grief for you came over me (I have a daughter, too... whom I love very much, as well). My heart is so very very sad and I wish I had some healing words to tell you... I wish I could help you be strong and encourage you. I know you are grieving and you are so lonely and confused... and I am sorry for that. Xavier will continue to live on in Spirit. He will always be with you (just not in physical form). He is at peace and he will not suffer in Paradise with our Father. He, now, has many mansions... and he is preparing a place for the rest of you - when your time comes. May God bless you. Please know that so many others are touched by your story... and we wish we could do more than write words or offer hugs. Quite frankly... we WISH we could bring Xavier back to you. Unfortunatley, that is not in God's plan... and we MUST let God work His plan. Afterall, Xavier was created by Him. Be strong... God bless you.##imported-begin##KME##imported-end##

“ I am so very sorry to read of your loss. When we suffer a loss we often feel helpless and alone, I know I did. What I found comforting was encouraging words from Jehovah found at Revelation 21: 3, 4. “ My heart goes out to his family. I too lost a son suddenly. There will be pain and heartache, but just know God is there to give you peace and strength. Hold on to the good memories, not how he died, and live life the way he would want you to, honor him in positive way. Never give up. you are in my prayers..##imported-begin##Norma##imported-end##

“ Dear Family: Life, as you know, is so precious. Death, however, is so cruel and when it takes the life of a child, it is especially cruel, paralyzing and devastating to the parents and all family members involved. I realize that nothing I say can remove the hurt and pain you are experiencing and will yet experience in future days. My hope is that I can direct your attention to the One who has the desire and the power to reverse all that has happened to you. He is the very Source of Life (Psalm 36:9) and it was never his purpose that man should die. (Psalm 133:3) He promises that soon things like this will not be for he states in his Word that He will ‘swallow up death forever’ and will lovingly ‘wipe the tears from all faces’. Anything that causes us tears, mourning, outcry or pain will be done away with (Revelation 21:4) and he even promises that the one responsible for causing death and devastation in life will be destroyed! (Hebrews 2:14) For now, your baby sleeps in God’s memory. Just as you can never forget your child...neither can our loving Creator who gave him to you, forget him (Isaiah 49:15; Psalm 127:3) In God’s due time, his Son, Jesus Christ, will awaken your son, Xavier, from the sleep of death to enjoy life again (John 5:28,29; 11:11-14) That is Jehovah God’s promise to all mankind who have lost loved ones (Acts 24:15). I hope that being reminded of these things will bring you some comfort, will ease your pain just a little and give you hope of a better tomorrow. We can rest assured that all these things will take place just as our merciful God has promised, for we know that he cannot lie (Titus 1:2) My deepest sympathy to you.##imported-begin##joyce jones##imported-end##
