“ I sat next to Dorian in an English Literature class at Wayne State University. I didn't know him well, but I'll forever remember his joyful smile and friendliness. I could tell he loved life. Once in class something funny happened and we both couldn't stop laughing for several minutes. Every time we looked at each other we'd burst out laughing again. I was devastated to read in the news what had happened to him. I hardly knew him but I'll never forget him. He made a lasting impression on me. Something made me think of him tonight, May 25, 2020. I hope his family has found comfort. Best wishes, Jessica Naiman.
