“ To Our Dear Family:

You have our sincere condolence at the passing of your beloved brother and our dear friend & brother.

God once again has moved in the midst of us and called a beloved brother home. Because of God's wisdom, we know He does nothing without purpose. So we submit to His wisdom and His will. We will miss James for now, but we look forward to seeing him again.

The passing of a loved one bring sadness. It is in times like this that we look to our Lord, Jesus Christ, who understands. We encourage you to trust him to sustain you and comfort you.

Please know that our prayers for you continue. Loving you all forever.

“ Sonny, Pat and Diane
We have been an extended family for most of our lives and have endured the painful passing of many loved ones. And yet we are never truly prepared to see another loved one pass on to a better place. I have many memories of Shag but I choose to cherish the fun times we had growing up as teenagers and find comfort knowing Shag is now free of earthly pain. But now once again we are burdened with familiar pain and grieving. We will keep all of you in our prayers and try to remember every day that family and close friends are precious and life is all too short.##imported-begin##Luther & Lula Cowden##imported-end##

“ God day Pat,

Your love to your brother has been evident down through the years and truly Shag had so much love to give to everyone especially his family that there was no way not to love him. That Spirit of Love that Shag carried will never be lost to you or your family because truly you will carry him in your hearts for years to come for truly we as Christians know that Shag is not lost because we know that those that love the Lord and his people as Shag did, we know that he is seated with God in glory. So, you and your family continue to be encouraged in the Lord and He will definitely give you Peace. Love you much, Ortheia
