“ To the family of Ruth Currie

There Is No Death.

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sail to the breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength. I stand and watch her until she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come to mingle with each other. Then someone at my side says, "There! She's gone!" Gone where? Gone from my sight, that's all. She is just as large in mask, hull, and spar as she was when she left my side, and she is just as able to her load of living weight to her destined port. Her diminished size is in me not her. Just at the moment when someone at my side says, "There! She's gone! There are other eyes watching her as she comes, and other voices ready yo take on the glad shout, Here she is! And that is dying
