“ Sandy what can I say, my heart is broken. I'm glad we were together friday night, kind of made ammends. You know I loved you and I know you loved me and our daughter. But you were like a father to John and Tracy too. And Kyan and Alexa will miss you to Papa. So many people loved you. I feel your finally at peace and out of pain though you never complained. You almost made it home that night. Peace and Love forever and ever, Cookie##imported-begin##Cookie##imported-end##

“ I just don't know where to start Sandy was one of the first hired at the Renaissance when it first opened, I should know because I was one of the first to stay there with compliments of my cousin Sandy. Sandy Redding as been a great encourager to me most of my life. When it came to me moving and starting a Church in Milwaukee Wisconsin Sandy was the first and only one that believed in me and supported me, when it came time to start the Church here Sandy was the one who stood behind me and told me that we had to bring the family together. Sandy supported the church financially and planting seeds of you can do it. Sandy said I will moved there to help and that we all know he did. As I look at this I understand a new dimension about Sandy he was the firstBorn, one of the first at the largest Hotel chain, and the first and only person that I know that had polio and went into the army force of U.S. of American. Sandy was one of unigueness that can only be compared with President Barack Obama, a peacemaker and a man of great character. Sandy Redding Sr. you were my Life coach.##imported-begin##Delano V.
