“ When I first came to Detroit in 1997, the Hales immediately accepted my like I was one of their own. Since then, I felt like a part of the family. So it goes without saying that your loss is my loss.

We cry not because our loved ones are gone. We cry because we feel like we won't see them again. But if we BELIEVE, then we know we will see our loved ones again. The seperation, like our tears...are temporary.

All love and support to the Hale Family, from my family in New York.

Blessings,

“ I am a child of God, giving _expression to my own unique talents and abilities.

Do I ever find myself wishing I could be like someone I admire and look up to, someone who inspires me and seems to have all the answers I am looking for?

Through the grace of God, I am that someone. I have all the wisdom, talent, and abilities I will ever need to be the unique and wonderful child that God created me to be.

The apostle Paul reminded all: "We have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us." I choose to use my own gifts and give thanks for the gifts of others that are uniquely their own.

Through the grace of God, I am a special creation, one who brings my own gifts to the world. As I let God work in and through me, I use my talents and abilities in ways I may never before have imagined but now recognize are possible.

*"We have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us."--
