“ Ode to My Mentor and Sister

In our lives we are lucky to secure jobs that help us to live a good life. At those jobs we come across a smorgasbord of people – the good, the bad, and the ugly. In my employment life I have come across such people – Some of them were, and are still, my colleagues while some of them were, and are still, my supervisors. I learnt from each supervisor either how to be a good manager or administrator or how not to be a bad manager or administrator.

During my employment days at The Detroit Public Library, I came across lots of people none more impacting than Ms. Sherry Sellers-Ngom.

She was my manager when I was transferred to a branch on the eastside of Detroit, which is no longer in existence, as her Acting Assistant Manager. She took me under her wings and taught me everything she knew about library management and librarianship as a profession. She made sure that I understood what it meant to deliver excellent customer service to both internal (our staff) and external (library customers/patrons). In addition, she made sure that I learnt collection development so as to build a library collection that is responsive to the community that it serves. Finally, she took me on her school visits as Children Librarian so I can learn how to interact with school administrators and school children.

Ms. Sherry Sellers-Ngom was a Manager's Manager!

She was kind-hearted, humble, honest, and loving. We became a family – brother and Big Sister. I met and became friends with both her late mother and late brother while she became friends to my late Mother, my wife, and a Big Auntie to our daughter. We kept in touch after she retired and also, after I moved to Maryland. I knew she was very ill even though she tried not to show it. Even though I was not able to say goodbye, I will forever cherish our friendship.

*Ms. Sherry Seller-Ngom, I thank you for being my Mentor and my Big Sister.
Rest in perfect peace!*

“ Ms. Sellers (or mom, as I knew her growing up) was certainly a great woman and one from whom we all learned about life and our heritage. She will forever be part of my village and has only transitioned to being an ancestor now. Love to and prayers for Keiraq, Brian, Amaya, and the family during this difficult time.
