“ I still don't want to believe this Trey. I can still hear your voice and laugh. In fact, I can remember the last laugh we shared together. You invited me over for the 4th of July. You told me about the ribs you made then clowned the ones Ronnie made because he didn't peel the skin off the back. LOL I don't know why that was so funny to us but it was. I got so many great memories man you will never be forgotten. I really wish somebody would tell me that bad news wasn't true but I guess I have to face reality soon. But it won't be a goodbye, it will be a see you later lil bro. I'm going to try my best to walk in with my head up high and sit with a smile has I remember the good times and celebrate your life and loving memory. Like I said before, you were all about growth, prosperity, grinding and I can't forget family. Trey you was a dedicated hard working man who took pride in his work and efforts. You always stayed well dressed and groomed. You was and is still loved by everybody.

Treyvon Smith, the epitome of hustle & motivate! #growseason

“ Truly one of the most motivated, laid back, and easiest to vibe with. Always about business and his family. I can't even fathom, even while I sit here now, that you were called home so early. Instead of flooding my mind with the inconsequential, I will carry with me all the great times; even the constant stats about growing. My heart is with us all who needs it during this time of need. Bond stronger together y'all. We will make it through. Rest easy, Trey.

“ Awww Trey
This saddens me to write this, you had such a kind and wonderful spirit....And always had me laughing, Every time you see me , you say “Oh Sis I'm making ribs you eating? “ Cause you know I love me some ribs... We were just at Nee Nee Birthday dinner eating at Outback and I was scared to order the ribs cause I thought they were nasty & then when your plate came out you shared your fried ribs with me and by the time my food came I wasn't hungry cause I ate your food...I will truly miss you 🥺 RIP brother 🕊️ - Your Sis Tia
