“ Cousin Willie Jean was always a big man to me. His personality was just as big. Once I was at a party and saw this familiar face constantly staring at me and I finally went over to the man and asked him why he was staring at me, admitting that he looked somewhat familiar to me. Even though cousin Willie Jean had probably lost about 100lbs or more, he still had that big personality that loudly announced ‘girl, I’m your cousin, Willie Jean.’ And all of a sudden I knew exactly who he was and we laughed and talked for a few minutes. Something I will never forget. About two weeks ago, I asked one of our many cousins had she talked with Willie Jean. I hate to think that I won’t hear that naturally joyful laughter of cousin, Willie Jean, but I’ll always have the happy memories. R.I.H.P. Cuz.

“ I love my granddaddy. I'm going to miss him so much. Even though I'm broken into pieces because he's not here no more but I know he's in a better place. He's not in pain no more or he's not suffering. He was a great man. A God fearing man. He'll give his last to anyone who was in need. Granddaddy i love and miss you dearly. You will forever be in my heart! You lived a long life granddaddy and I'm happy I knew a man like you. You loved me like no other and I'm forever grateful
